Policies on Slavery and Human Trafficking

Barnhart Canada is committed to fair dealing and high ethical standards in everything we do. Key to this commitment is the personal integrity of our people. The Barnhart Canada Code of Conduct, incorporated in our Barnhart Canada Employee Handbook (available to all employees through our Learning Management Software system) reflects the requirements that our employees comply with all applicable laws and regulations and act with integrity. We actively promote and encourage fair dealings and working in a socially responsible manner.

Barnhart Canada utilizes a variety of suppliers, primarily local or Canadian-based, but acknowledges that there could be a risk of forced labour within current supply chains, especially in industries and regions where labour standards may be less stringent, or processes and procedures may be lacking. We strive to seek long-term relationships with suppliers that share the same strict standards of quality, integrity and human rights, product excellence and overall compliance with all local laws and regulations.

MODERN SLAVERY DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

Barnhart Canada is committed to doing business in full compliance with all local laws and regulations and has purchase order terms and conditions that require suppliers to cooperate with Canada Border Service Agency and the requirements of Bill S-211, ensuring alignment with our supply chain partners to conduct business ethically and with the same high standards. Through ongoing improvements in our supply chain processes, Barnhart Canada strives to partner with suppliers that do not contribute to exploitation and harm to vulnerable populations.

Due Diligence Process and Monitoring

Barnhart Canada utilizes an anonymous, confidential and accessible Whistleblower tool called FaceUp enabling anyone to report potential breaches of Barnhart's policies or concerns. Pursuant to Barnhart's Whistleblower process, all such complaints will be promptly and thoroughly investigated by the appropriate staff member in accordance with Barnhart Canada's policies.

Risk Assessment

Barnhart Canada completed a formal, documented risk assessment of its supply chain in fiscal 2024 and 2025. As a result of that assessment, Barnhart Canada has engaged high-risk suppliers identified in the assessment via a questionnaire to address areas of concern around forced and child labour and their practices. We do understand that our suppliers may use products that originate from other jurisdictions, and our suppliers will potentially have their own global supply chains for consideration. Accordingly, we intend to further assess, understand and do our part in mitigating risk in our supply chain.

Based on our findings and risk assessment procedures to date, Barnhart Canada considers there to be a low risk of Modern Slavery occurring within its business considering our workforce, policies and procedures that govern recruitment, hiring practices, working conditions and the ethical treatment of our employees.

Remediation

In 2025, Barnhart Canada did not identify any instances of Modern Slavery in its activities or supply chains. As a result, it did not take any measures to remediate Modern Slavery, or any loss of income for vulnerable families resulting therefrom.

We continue to monitor and assess additional training requirements as part of our professional learning and development practices.
